Sinopsis:

Pregnancy is a wonderful experience. Bringing home a healthy baby brings happiness to the whole family. To ensure that this happiness remains in the family the medical personnel managing the expectant mother should be up to date in giving their best management throughout the pregnancy and delivery. This book describes the management of common cases in the labour suite. The management has been updated and revised to suit the facilities available in Malaysia, taking Hospital Universiti Sains Malaysia as the main reference. Compared to other textbooks, this book is written in such a way that quick reference can be made. The contributors of the chapters are obstetrician lecturers from the Department of Obstetrics and Gynaecology who generally have vast experience in managing obstetrics patients. Medical students, midwives, house officers, medical officers, registrars together with obstetricians may find this book helpful in their management of patients in labour.
